

blakrōṇa Runic:  Pronunciation: /'blak.rɔ:.nã/

verb · Weak class 2

Meanings

1. to flash
2. to burn, to scorch

Etymology

From Proto-Indo-European root b^hel-* ('to blaze; glow; bright flame; white'). Equivalent to blakōṇa* ('to burn, to blacken') + -r-* + -ōṇa* (frequentative suffix). The -r-* is a stem-enlarging consonant before weak class 2 -ōṇa*, typically making the verb more vivid, repeated, durative, or sound-symbolic in character. Compare glitrōṇa* ('shine, glisten, glitter'), hwīskrōṇa* / hwisprōṇa* ('whistle, hiss, whisper'), stamrōṇa* ('stammer'), klibrōṇa* ('climb, clamber; scratch, claw'). Possibly a cognate with Latin flagrō ('I burn'), which originates from the same root, using a zero-grade form + -ró-* extension.
