to brew

Etymology

From Proto-Indo-European b^hrewh₁-e/o-* from root b^hrewh₁-* ('to boil, brew'), related to Ancient Greek ἀπέφρυσεν (apéphrusen) (apéphrusen, 'brewed'). Cognates are Albanian: brume ('dough'), Ancient Greek πορφύρω (porphūrō) (porphūrō, 'to heave, boil, surge up'), and Old Irish bruith ('that which is boiled, melted'). Related to brinnana* ('to burn, be on fire'), bruþa* ('broth'), and brauda* ('bread').
