Etymology

From post-Proto-Indo-European / pre-Proto-Germanic *g^{wh}ntis → *g^{wh}untis → *g^huntis (with the u causing delabialization of the labial, and hence Germanic *g- rather than *b- as in the other descendants of *g^{wh}en- and of *g^{wh}- more generally), from Proto-Indo-European *g^{wh}éntis ('act of killing, blow'), from *g^{wh}en- ('to strike, kill').
