

hupiz Runic: ᚱᚢᚲᚱᚱᚱᚱ Pronunciation: /'xu.piz/

noun · masculine · i-stem

Meanings

hip, haunch, upper part of the thigh

Etymology

Uncertain. Most simply, from a late Proto-Indo-European kewb-* ('to recline'); cognate with Latin cubō ('lie down, recline'), Latin cubitus ('elbow, bend, arch'), Proto-Celtic kuxsketi* ('to sleep'). Compare however Proto-West Germanic hubil* ('bump, hill'), hump* ('hump, hunch'), Danish huv ('hull') and English hub, hob, all of uncertain origin. Has been compared to Proto-Germanic huppōnā* ('to hop'), for a pre-Germanic or Proto-Indo-European root "to bend", which has been reconstructed in various ways. More at kh₂em-*, Ancient Greek κύβος (kúbos) (kúbos, 'hollow in the hips'), Albanian sup ('shoulder'), Sanskrit शुप्ति (śúpti) (śúpti, 'shoulder').
